MY PROVED COMPANION OF FLORENTINE DAYS

AND OTHER SEASONS OF FAIR AND FOUL WEATHER-

THIS NORTHERN FRUIT

TO

MY WIFE

PREFATORY NOTE

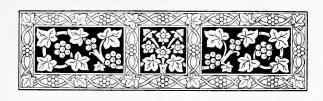

It will sufficiently be seen that this poem does not treat of Florentine history; that it flouts chronology. Nullum tempus occurrit regi. May this maxim be twisted to further the poet? The painters adopted it when they yoked Lucrece, Susanna, and the daughters of Danaus to Chastity's chariot; and Dante found Ulysses in the same pit with Guido da Montefeltro. Let this serve as my excuse for setting Giotto after Boccace, and for worse discourtesies to Time's travels.

Here you see, as in a glass, Death and Florence grip and pass. One was scornful as a maid In her bravery fresh array'd: One was brawny, hearted brass— Which look'd longer, Death or lass?

Gentles, you and Death and I
Have a friendly fall to try.
He is masterful and plays
Steadily; looks not for praise,
Heeds no blame. Your head is high,
High as mine—but by and bye?

PERSONS OF THE MASQUE.

A CHORUS OF TIRED LADIES AND POETS FORGOTTEN.
THE FLORENTINE SHADES.
A HERALD.
THREE REPROACHES.
KING DEATH.

THE MASQUE:

FIRST PART.

The Scene is an open loggia giving upon a garden in winter, with leafless trees, and cypresses. The rain stands in pools; over all is the soughing of a great wind. A fitful sunshine comes and goes.

AFTER THE SECOND SOUNDING

The Chorus of twelve poets and twelve ladies, robed alike in sad-coloured habits, comes into the garden, and looking towards a terminal statue of Memory which is in it, says this:

T

We have lost what we had won, Love's reward for love's work done. Sightless Memory receiv'd No news, if we joy'd or griev'd. Were we lov'd? She lov'd us not. Pity-worth? Behov'd us not.

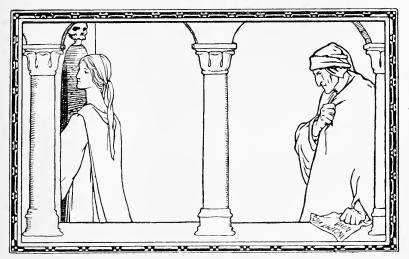

Of quiet death.

Yet we count us happier
Than are they whose keener star
Shone about them while they stayed
Here with us; and when they strayed
Forbore Death their names to hide:
We are they who quietly died.

Π

Invocation of the great ones.

Here begins that crimson line, Greater none, nor more divine. By thy grimness of achieving, By the scope of thy conceiving, God-creative, Heaven-cleaving, Alighieri! lift thy head From among the sheeted dead. Buonarroti! God is just; Come thou too to close the trust: Tell the story How the glory Of thy burgh was pash'd in dust.

DANTE
ALIGHIERI passes,
in sober red habit and cowled; a tongue of fire above
his brow.

Dante.

The first to speak in Florence, Florence spurn'd My song and service. From home to outland turn'd, I sensed God's secrets, eating salted bread. God woke my love by death: they crown'd me, dead.

CHORUS.

O lasso! Woe, the dead poet! Woe, the alien tomb, And brooding brow shadow'd by all Hell's gloom! How was that City proud and confident That past him by. Alas! all's woe upon her!

> Say, wouldst thou know his heart? His heart was riven: To God one half, to Beatrice half was given. But since God saw Heav'n bare without her soul. He took her; and the cloven heart was whole.

BEATRICE PORTINARI in a clear green garment, and holds her hand to her heart.

BEATRICE.

passes. She is My spirit, like a sigh, just flutter'd o'er Our homestead city; melted then to soar As altar-smoke. But one who'd mourn'd me wed, Follow'd me from that Feast. I liv'd, being dead. Chorus.

I

God saw her beautiful, and lov'd, and took her! How dark the city sate (That joyed of late) When she, that youngest angel-shape, forsook her.

П

This is that man who thought it well Alone to tread the gulfs of Hell, Who look'd on naked sin beneath The mask of life, and call'd it death.

Of DANTE and BEATRICE.

Nor lost he there his latest breath, Nor all the pity he had shed; But it was heap'd on him, and led Him outward from the cavern's teeth. And that great utterance he said Liveth, and he who saw the dead Cannot taste death; for Death's hand shook To feel the burden of his Book.

And this is She at whose death-moan The wasted City sat alone; And She whose giving up of life Forewarn'd him take her soul to wife.

Ш

Of Song, the miraculous child.

From the nuptial of Spirit and Spirit,
From the girdle that bound her young heart,
Unloosed by the tongue of his art,
Sprang the burning miraculous Child
All soothsay that was to inherit,
To nourish and foster and spread,
Till all kindreds should leap when he smiled,

Or panting run whither he led At the spell of his treacherous merit.

O Song, with the throat of a bird And loins and core of a youth; O Song, crystal harbour of truth, That sprang from Love mated with Power! O Song, when thy harping was blurr'd, Thoughtest thou, O Song, in thy ruth, What blood had water'd thy flower Ere yet one tendril had stirr'd? What paling of virginal bosoms, What prayerful, and tearful, and sooth Upgiving of strength, that thy blossoms Should bud in that clamorous hour?

But Song set his delicate feet In the way of the World and the mire; Song tasted the fruit of desire, And laugh'd at the clouding of eyes (For he knew love's filming was sweet). So Song held revel, and loud Sang he with passionate cries: And his raiment was golden and proud. Thus the cup of his wrath was complete.

IV

Song as a child was full of peace Laid in the bosom of Beatrice. O sweet lady, O griev'd heart, How fared Song and his brother Art?

Laura.

I gave my love to him who lov'd my face, I did him wifely service with good grace; Nor lean'd aside to what my Poet said: But I may thank him now that I am dead.

LAURA
comes, a youthful Matron in a high-waisted gown, a child at eitherhand. She looks fatiently before her, with good courage.

Petrarch.

My voice was as the swan's that dirgeth death; My joys were frail things, lighter than a breath. But, like the night, I froze them to a brede— They wove me crowns thereof, and wrapt me dead.

CHORUS.

"Merci," she laugh'd him once; a glove discarded, A parting, and a meeting:

With these his poet's hunger was rewarded;
But in her greeting,

Or when the light of her died down and flutter'd As stars at dawning,

Or at her coming various song-birds utter'd The rosy birth of morning;

Or when he knelt and took her hand's warm sheathing, His heart on fire

Shot golden words unto his lips, which breathing Did lift him higher Than ever long assuagement of desire. PETRARCH.
He has a laurelwreath, and hears a little crystal urn wherein is his own heart.

The CHORUS tells of his consolation.

ROCCACE

passes, crowned with flowers, a wreath'd thyrsus in his hand.

BOCCACE.

Heavy the blossoms, sultry-sweet the wine, And all the air gold-dusted with sun-shine. I found a girl's warm bosom for my head, And—God was good! I lov'd till I was dead.

FIAMMETTA passes. She is passes. She is robed like a King's daughter, and carries a pair of golden shears. FIAMMETTA.

I brought my burning wealth up from the South, I kiss'd him with the kisses of my mouth: The low slow laugh when Southern love is fed Was longer mine: I cloyed him, he is dead.

Of BOCCACE'S book. CHORUS.

Yes, thou art dead, *Boccace!*Thy garden-plot, a hundred starry flowers,
Yet springs, is fragrant yet of soft light loves,
Love languid, love askance, love under bowers
Of myrtle trees, love eager, love that proves
How love may ache, alas!

And she, thy confident fair
That set her gleaming teeth
To the rind of thy fruits, laid bare
Her white throat soft as death
To warm to thy amorous breath.
She let down the pride of her hair,
A flood and tangle of gold.

A flood and tangle of gold, And sat embower'd there

Like pale Oueen Helen of old:

Scarlet her lips, but the white of her globed breasts is untold!

The three Ladies dance a stately solemn measure, to this versing:

Beatrice, the white Lady, Lead our mystic pageantry;

The Measure.

Laura, slim and carcanetted, Shy as violets dew-wetted; And of the sweetness of his Lady.

Fiammetta, lissom, young, Golden as the arum's tongue,

Follow in the antic round, Eyes demurely cast to ground.

High-born, stately, queens, we pass Treading daintily the grass.

BEATRICE.

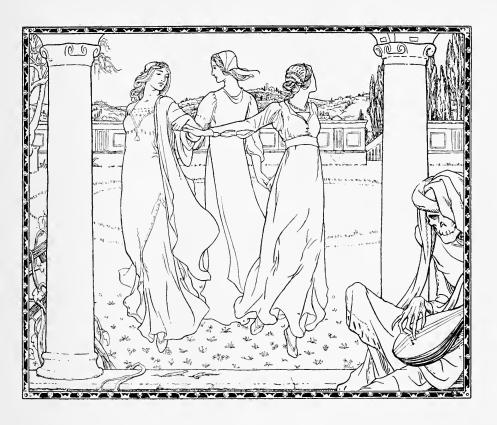

I was nine when I was wooed, Never word my poet could.

LAURA.

Wedded wife was I, my poet Won my looks but could not know it.

FIAMMETTA.

Great King's daughter though I were, I chose my poet debonnair.

THE THREE LADIES.

Twine white arms, tread the measure: Ours the grace and theirs the treasure.

Let the ghostly ladies pass Like the mist on springing grass.

BEATRICE.

I was wedded ere my years Number'd twelve: I shed no tears.

LAURA.

Children bore I to my lord As thy years; I sighed no word.

FIAMMETTA.

Wedded I, but love is free: Not my husband pleasured me. THE THREE LADIES.

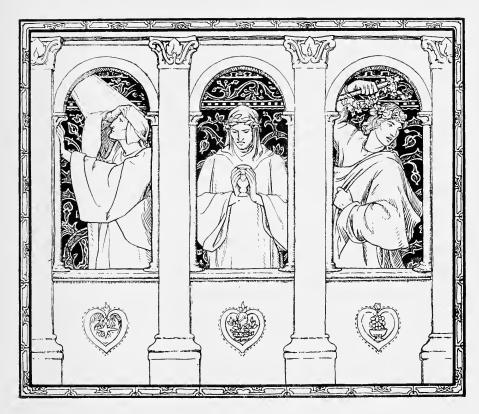

All the years and all the blisses Come and go like children's kisses.

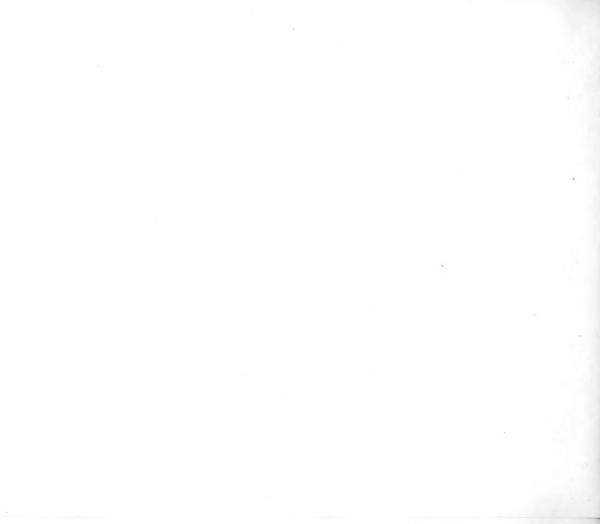

We are dead, and now, alas! Shadows of us haunt the grass.

The three Ladies pass away; but the Chorus, looking still upon their poets, says this:

Ι

Of the Great Lo! now, the mighty triad of old Florence Three. Mewed like strong eagles in Death's pale abhorrence. The first set patient at his prison-bars, Look'd up and saw his lady with the stars; The next, slow-pacing, holding him apart, Pierc'd his own breast to Laura in his heart: And last the Reveller, flushing high, did pass, Look'd down on Fiammetta couch'd in grass.

O strength, that scann'd all Heaven, and Man, and Earth!

O glory, that could give such seeing birth.

H

They built a shrine anon to speak those three,
Soaring aloft, dome-shadow'd like a world,
Deep-founded as the good brown Earth their fee,
And set about with massy, rich-empearl'd
Smooth marble (like the soul of Poetry),
And winding leafage of vine and olive curl'd,
Down drooping o'er the column'd tracery.
How goodly shone the vasty fabric hurl'd
Tow'rd Heaven up, yet cleaving sturdily
To Earth's broad bosom and the grey street's track,
Barr'd like a great moth's wing with rose and black,
Knew all men best when (breath'd by God) its flower
Spear'd up of his desire, the lily-tower.

Of the DUOMO.

H

Of new Shades.

Break off, break off, my heart, here are new comers, Perpetual youth and age perpetual;
One with the bashful bloom of early summers,
The other gnaw'd on like the years that fall.
Who is this dreamer with his dreams at call,
And happy morning face, and wholesome breath?
Who this lean vagrant, choking down his gall
As he should grudge to void it upon Death?

The first GIOTTO, figured as a young man carrying a shock of spring boughs.

Gютто.

The hills that call each other thro' the night, The stars that sing of silence, the trees of light, I knew! I knew! "Thy brethren they," He saith. There came a sister soon, meek Sister Death.

Corso.

I had the fire-streak'd blood no pomp could hold Of Gothic blazon or Cerchi's dirty gold. A ban-dog hounding sheep, I fought and bled That, living, Florence fear'd me: I hush her, dead. The other is CORSO DONATI, like an old man with blood upon his hair

CHORUS.

One doth make what one doth mar; One brings peace, another war. See what Florence' children are—One bit her, one did kiss the scar.

A company of four Shades comes next.

FARINATA.

The fire that rages in me outburns Hell; I am the pride of Florence!

FARINATA
in his armour,
with a naked
sword:

BUONDEL-MONTE in a white silken doublet; BUONDELMONTE.

I rang a knell

That day they drain'd me whiter than my vest: After 'twas Florence bled.

GUIDO CAV-ALCANTE with a lute, and a peacock's feather stuck in his cap; Guido.

My way was best.

From lip to lip I past, from grove to grove: I am like Florence; they call me Light o' Love.

Last PICC
PICCARDA
DONATI with the Minoress' cord and Piccarda.

Reared in a goshawk's nest, I flew to peace; Plighted to sin, I wedded the white Christ: His arm upheld me when they marr'd our ease, For I was stricken whiter than the mist.

In a sudden ray of light a single Shade comes to close the tale.

FRA
BEATO
ANGELICO, in black and white habit.
He carries a tily in one hand. On his shoulder burns a star.

FRA BEATO.

The mystic flame-enwrapt Jerusalem Was set before me like a clouded gem. I trod the ways of Florence: steep the tread, But leading swiftly to the blessed dead.

Of lovely life. CHORUS.

Thou shalt be called the Son of Peace And Star of Bethlehem: In thee the ardent striver Found placed requiem; In thee, the still contriver, In thee, the honest liver, Dreaming thy soaring ecstasies Within the hum of men. Like to the soothing of doves, Like to the plashing of rain, So as the cloud-shadow moves To sober the Sun's beating pain, Thy music, thy chrism, thy prayers, Bade Hope lift again: Hope of wings fretty with fire, Of eyes looking out to the deep Heart of the azure, and higher— Yearning to creep

Of quick recompense. Into the folds of the mantle of God, Haply to sleep.

The light endures for a space, and then goes out as the Frate's shade passes. The rain descends and veils the scene. The end of the first part.

THE SECOND PART.

Begins under a cold clear sky. Enters the Herald, a young boy in a short Greekish cloak and Phrygian cap. He carries a Pan-pipe and speaks eagerly this sonnet.

Of new pro-

The Tale is now of Love and Italy And Art their fosterling, of that new time When first the Sun scatter'd the hoary rime Of older fashions, and leapt eagerly Forward and up to flood the new with glee. Then, when the world was young and saw in rhyme And colour move all Nature, the sublime Prism and chord of God lay plain to see. Then every maid held godhead, every flower A sacrament, the fever and old dread Of living—ecstasy! of loving—power! So Love call'd from the grave the mighty dead: And he that voiced the music of the spheres, Plato the prophet, murmured down the years.

CHORUS. The boy is a shade, And the cup he quaffs

Is down to the lees:

Only Death laughs.

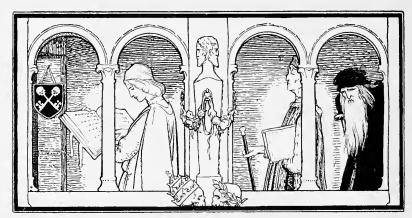

First comes I.IPPO LIPPI alone, figured as a voung Satyr in a monk's frock.

LIPPO.

I peered for God and found him underneath A girl's shy eyes. Up then came Master Death, Saying, 'You monk, bow down to me instead; 'Here is no god for you.' My wench was dead.

Then come three scholars together.

Pico.

Men call'd me Paragon; I challenged Rome; Rome frown'd, I fled: on many a dusty tome I ponder'd, yet found not the true Godhead; But, loving much, God came and laid me dead.

PICO of MIR-ANDOLA. He is a youth in soft raiment, reading in a Hebrew book.

First GIO.

Scala.

They dubb'd me inexpert, and set me slave At lacquey work: my heart to Greek I gave. Had I that fair sort that I coveted? I strove, I strain'd to reach, I clutch'd—'twas dead.

Then BARTO-LOMMEO SCALA in his burgher's dress, and spectacles pushed on to his forehead.

Lionardo.

Too curious! Art short solace gave my spirit.
Too curious! Power contented not my merit.
Too curious! Life itself me wearied.
The living tire to death: we wait, we dead.

Then LION-ARDO DA VINCI with a long white beard. He walks painfully with a crutch.

CHORUS.

Blind, blind! As sheep in the rain.
Blind as the Worm that beguiled The Mother of Cain.

O foolish Wise!

Then comes La Simonetta, as a virgin of lovely sorrowful countenance, in a white robe. Round her loins is a black snake that carries his tail ever in his mouth. She bears a chaplet of yew; and is attended by seven young maids in mourning weeds.

Grief of SIMON-ETIA SIMONETTA.

Once a virgin of virgins, Crown'd as with fire, and pale, I stoopt to my own undoing, I lay as corn to the flail.

THE SEVEN.

As a lily-stalk snapt by hail She fell to her girdle's undoing, Nor tears could avail.

SIMONETTA.

As the hawk on his wrist he was hard, As the quail's my blithsomeness froze; I stood asham'd in the pasture, My eyes were wide as the roe's.

THE SEVEN.

With her lapful of flowers she uprose: All tenderly white was her vesture, She blush'd like a rose.

SIMONETTA.

I was woo'd in the time of wild crocus, I sank with a trembling of knees; He took me up on his pillion And rode away thro' the trees.

THE SEVEN.

The willow must bend to the breeze! She pined in her king's pavilion, She longed for her peace.

Oh, the land swept black by the shower, The lash and the rain! She bow'd like a tired sweet flower, She moan'd for her pain!

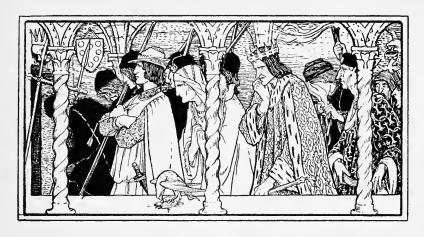

SIMONETTA.

Because, being fairer than the dawn, I trod The flowery way that lures a soul from God, And gaged my youth against man's hardihead; Therefore I wear the bleak smile of the dead.

CHORUS.

Blind.

Blind, blind!
As monk in his cell;
Blind as the Corn-mother's child
That played by the mouth of Hell.

Then come the house of Medici. First is Giuliano de' Medici in hunter's green. He carries a broken shaft in his hand. Following him are seven lads (sons of princes) dressed in sables.

GIULIANO.

Once as a tiger-whelp I was athirst, And gnaw'd the breast where kindly I was nurs'd. But thirstier the blades that cut me red, And sent me shaggy to the secret dead.

Retribution.

The Seven Princes.

Swart as the heart of the South,

Proud as the rock-springing pine,

Sweet water cool'd never thy drouth,

Nor fruit of the vine!

Last of old Cosimo's line,

Cut off quick in thy youth,

Thy blood was outpour'd like wine;

They show'd thee no ruth,

Who in life had none for the old, nor the roses of youth.

CLARICE.

CLARICE
ORSINI;
a grey-hair'd woman bowed beneath a golden voke.

I had small solace for my life of anguish, Pluck'd out from Rome and set in Florence to languish: A pride that froze my tears ere they could shed, And children—would they were as I am, dead!

And then
LORENZO as a king crowned with thorns and holding a leaden sceptre.

Lorenzo.

I am that Medici, swart, keen, and wanton, That spent all Florence on the thin-lipt phantom Of lust so dry it never could be fed: At last, unshrived, still burning, I fell dead.

CHORUS.

Woe! Woe! the staring hearth: woe! the tired city, Weary of bloodshed, vacant-eyed for pity! Woe to brown Pisa! Havoc on Volterra! Woe, all Woe upon us!

Three grey women hold the gate, With sudden firelit eyes, and hate Cradled in each beaten breast. Stay! Heed them; one out-hates the rest.

The RE-PROACHES.

Three Reproaches, like to bent women, appear stretching out arms towards the shade of Lorenzo.

The first Reproach.

First woe was when the sword was set, Sword and Fire to my own young brood.

PISA.

Never a woe like the mother's cry
That watches in chains the ebb of her blood—
Woe to thee! Pisa was I.

The second Reproach.

The maids' dowry.

Next woe was the shaming of maids, Stript to the smock and sold to sin. Never such woe as to lay the lure, Smirch and soil what once was clean— Woe! who shall ravish the poor.

The third Reproach.

Tyranny.

Third woe was the land in chains, Golden seeming and brave in silk. Where is woe as for brother and brother Bruise the bosom that gave them milk— Woe! who traffick'd his mother.

Ere the Chorus can curse him, Poliziano comes behind him with a muffled rote, and weeping.

Poliziano.

Elegy.

Grant me, gods, a fount of tears,
So that night and day
Weeping I may drown old grief,
Mourning quench the years.
So the widow'd turtle may
Give her heart relief;
So the fainting snowy swan,
So the nightingale,
All their sorrows, utter lonely passion, do bewail.

Woe for us, and woe, and woe! Grief is bow'd and grey;

Jove hath carv'd our goodly Tree
With his thunderblow!

Woe the Muses' broken lay,

Woe the melody!

Woe, Apollo, woe God Pan,

Woe, ye Sisters Nine,

Woe, green-kirtled Dryads, woe, my Bacchus, to thy vine! Mourning let me quench the years, And my grief to drown, Grant me, gods, a waterflood, Grant a fount of tears.

CHORUS.

70 One there was Who, loving much, did weep for thee. So pass: Death may not smite The lamp to shiver quite That little flame within that was a Poet's light.

Next comes COSIMO, PATERPATRIÆ, an old man richly habited, having the ears of MIDAS.

Cosimo.

Laboured I well, that bound the state to mine In gives that chafed, but held throughout the line? They crown'd me with a name our foes might dread, But curs'd me for my sons when I was dead.

CHORUS.

Blind, blind! As a bird in the snow.
Blind as the king that did cherish
The son that wrought him a woe.

The little Great.

SAVONAROLA.

God set in me a heart to burn like pain, And Florence fed the fire. In vain, in vain, SAVONA-ROLA, carrying a smouldering torch. I augur'd life; the fire was heap'd; I led The way for Florence: Florence mock'd me dead.

Following is his enemy, FRA N-CESCO the MINORITE, carrying a distorting glass.

Fra Francesco.

For Francis' sake I spurn'd him of Saint Mark: Is that soul sure that dareth him embark
On death's dull sea that death may serve hatred?
I know not what they won, nor care, being dead.

Next the Frate's Champion, FRA DOME-NICO, cowled in white, with an anchor. Fra Domenico.

I trusted in the prophet sent from God; Side to his side the way to death I trod. The flame leapt heavenward—O true he said! Our spirits soar'd; we left but ashes dead.

SANDRO BOTTI CELLI, holding a hollow sphere. Sandro.

Latest of all, and loneliest, I endured
In heaviness of days with light obscured:
Green earth grown grey, sun cold, the comely head
Of my life's flower snapt short—Art with her, dead!

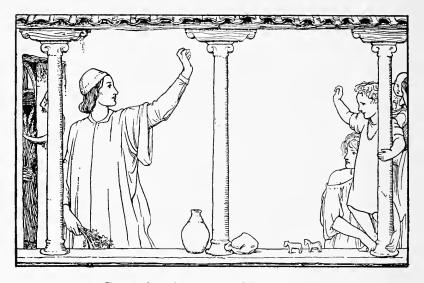

The Chorus breaks in upon him with this lament, what time the rain descends and the wind blows shrill.

What shall it profit, O Man,
That the pitiful soil of thy years,
Sterile, acheth a span
Of waste furrow'd by tears?
Waste sown with tears,
Flowering pale for a span,
Wither'd anon like the years;
What profit, O Man?

The dirge

Twenty thou groanest to learn, Twenty thou thinkest to fly, Twenty drag, and thy turn Cometh to die.
What profit, O Man, What the harvest of years, Strown like corn to the fan, Cut as with sickle the ears?

Of Loss,

Corn that is sown with tears, Winnow'd as chaff by the fan; Gone the harvest of years:— Death is profit, O Man!

And Profit.

When the Sun gleams again, you see Luca della Robbia, clothed in apple-green, with a bunch of yellow and blue flowers in his hand.

Luca.

Mine was a glad small spirit unafraid;
I breathed it out, the stone walls flower'd, and made Florence a garden. So without a dread I laid my tools aside and blossom'd, dead.

CHORUS.

Thou shalt be called the Son of Man And Spirit of the Earth,
That met young Love and kiss'd her And wreath'd her lips with mirth;
April with eyes aglister,
Green May her buxom sister,
Shy loves and tender fruitage
Were children of thy birth.

With eyes seeking the Sun, And heart loving the Day, Knowing no evil to shun, Guileless, walking the way, Praise of LUCA.

Wherein, perhaps, the dirge is answer'd. Breathing the secret of children and flowers Into thy clay!

Man with the faith of a child,

Child with a strength superhuman;

Lover, that told of the Virgin most mild,

Wedded to no man:

Holy art thou, that could call her arise

God, but a woman!

NICCOLÒ
MACCHIAVELLI, bearing a skull wreath'd with flowers.

MACCHIAVEL.

That kings might feast I sweated God away; To insolent stripling feet I bow'd my grey Wise brows. A smirk, a shrug, a wagging head—I used this way: they use it on me dead.

Benvenuto.

The glory of their princedoms, and their power Who go in purple, I knew my little hour. What time my brain-trap gript them all, I led Whither I would. What profiteth me dead?

BEN-VENUTO CELLINI, blindfold.

Pulci.

Let who wins laugh: I laugh'd at Heaven and Earth. Dante saw Grief and lov'd her; I chose Mirth. Mirth and I laugh'd till we were out of breath, And left one laughing still—the jester, Death.

LUIGI PULCI, gnawing a stone.

CHORUS.

A boy singing His love and pain; The watch-bell ringing, Blood shed like rain!

The burden of FLORENCE,

A dreamy maid, And a voice like a cry— "Betrayed, betrayed! How shall we die?" Sigh, wind, sigh.

The squire at hawking, The grass in flower; Shame stalking In the lady's bower. "Love like a drought Doth scorch and dry: My heart is out, Now let me die!" Sigh, wind, sigh.

All the burning Of all the South,

Turn'd to mourning Thy singing mouth. The fire kindled, Soar'd to the sky; The song dwindled, The lute lay by. Sigh, wind, sigh.

"How shall I sing With my lady cold? She died in the Spring; I am grown old." This is the load Of the singer's cry—"If God is God He will let me die!" Sigh, wind, sigh.

Then the Chorus invokes the last Shade.

CHORUS.

Finis coronat!

Now, last and greatest of these, Buonarroti the Seer,
Wielder of dark mysteries,
Graver that knew no peer!
Poet, thinker in stone,
Painter, Maker of men,
Naked, silent, alone,
Gods walking again!
Thee, last, who art first,
Thee, King, we invoke;
Tell of Florence accurs'd,
Her dolorous stroke.

MICHAEL MICHAEL ANGELO.

ANGELO
comes crown'd;
his robe full of weeping eyes.

The gaunt long life of unfulfill'd desire,
The hireling's ashes on the poet's fire!
I prayed in stone. Their scorn was on their head:
In me they slew the last of their great dead.

CHORUS.

Blind, blind! As the owl in the day: Florence was, and is not; She passeth away!

FLORENCE was.
